Killiecrankie. The Pass of Killiecrankie, celebrated in song and story, is a contraction of the valley of the Garry. Beautiful and romantic surroundings, with peaceful anglers fishing, artists sketching some picturesque view, or pleasure parties banqueting on the turf in a fretwork of shade and sunshine, it little suggests the murderous ambuscades and scenes of slaughter that made it memorable, when the Battle of Killiecrankie was fought, 27th July, 1689. It is a popular and delightful excursion.

With all best love from every one, and the best wishes for many very happy returns of the day.
